

DPT009: Examine Your Zippers, American Broadcasting Company!!! Max Carpenter

ACROSS

1. Prog rock supergroup with members from King Crimson, Yes, and ELP (a pretty damn British make-up, given their name)
5. Masc. opposite
8. Artery-clogging chain owned by fast-food giant Yum!, which also owns Pizza Hut and Taco Bell
11. Audacious Austin music/ everything fest
15. Word in a nerdy Cali college or a mediocre wannabe-grunge band
16. Actress Mendes whose character is (sort of) kidnapped by Denis Lavant in Leos Carax's masterful "Holy Motors" (It's still on Netflix...watch it!)
17. Post-apocalyptic setting for "Adventure Time" (it looks like a tic-tac-toe win)
18. Part of CEO: abbr.
19. Barry Goldwater or César Chávez, by birth
21. Like a slacker's unfinished assignment
22. Orthogonal lines protruding from the origin
23. Classy chocolate bar on an LCD monitor, say
26. Rds., or Drs. of the Church
27. Lazily support someone's social media effort
28. Two-part 2011 album by Grouper (if you're not up on your tape loop drone music then just write in three non-'Y' vowels, you'll have a 1-in-125 chance)
29. Small evil minion
32. A thing not given by many things other than nocturnal birds
34. Type of binary question
38. Measurement at which radiation becomes invisible, or 400 nm, to be precise
42. Vajazzled area, slangily
43. Function properly, as a lecturer's pointer
44. Mounty's interjections
45. Pole with a felt tip, or a homonym for one of two letters not in this grid
46. Line of cocaine

© 2016

- | | | |
|--|--|--|
| <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 48. He was born in Argentina and assassinated in Bolivia, or a homonym for one of two letters not in this grid 51. "That's Royal Dutch Airlines, not Broiled Duck Airlines! Get it straight!" 57. Automobile company whose "Born From Jets" slogan did not prevent a 2011 bankruptcy 58. Ferryman's instrument 59. ___ Two (veep's plane, sans prez) 60. Suffix with ranch or sant 61. TV ad telling kids to stay in school, e.g. 62. Sgt., for one 63. First band mentioned on the Nu metal Wikipedia page 64. Zanily-spelled expression of disbelief on AIM 65. Vexed viper's voicing 66. Hamilton (...for when a Lincoln won't do) 67. "___ a Spell on You" (Screamin' Jay Hawkins song not-so-famously covered by the menacing Diamanda Galás) | <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 4. Woodworking tools that make a "Chuck. Chuck. Chuck." sound, à la Faulkner 5. Art of furniture repositioning, to Westerners 6. "Well, Did You ___!" (Cole Porter song whose titular lyrics follow lead-ins like "Have you heard the coast of Maine just got hit by a hurricane?") 7. Second best-selling singer named Barry 8. Fujifilm competitor 9. Poindexter dis 10. Like many dorm bathrooms 11. Trick-performing pinniped 12. It seems that every concert T-shirt stand only has this size in stock 13. "___ Told You So" (Rush Limbaugh book that I've seen in many Goodwills) 14. Fields and potties 20. W/ regularity 24. Overprescribed stimulant for underperforming teens 25. Assuage 29. "Documentary Now!" channel 30. "¡Dios ___!" (64-Across, to Juan Carlos) 31. Decree 33. Road with a road under it 35. A beta particle is either this or its antimatter equivalent | <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 36. "___ Degree" (annoying song by the [thankfully] defunct band Morningwood whose titular refrain is preceded by "M-O, M-O-R, M-O-R-N-I-N-G-W-O-O-D, to the...") 37. Interjections that can be cries of pain, pleasure, understanding, confusion, etc. 39. Descriptor for Steve or Brain, in internet memes 40. Now's partner 41. Lionhearted 47. They're seen before many migraines 49. Burgundy-robed 89-year-old married to a 29-year-old, as tabloids might call him 50. Thin, long, white mushroom cultivar 51. Company whose four products are Light Corn Syrup, Dark Corn Syrup, Pancake Syrup, and Lite Syrup 52. Beginning of a Britney Spears song 53. "À propos de ___" (Jean Vigo's quietly revolutionary gem of a documentary shot in Southeast France) 54. Point of orgasmic release in a brostep song 55. Off-white color that means 'unbleached' in French 56. Pops-a-___ (ding fixer-upper of infomercial fame) |
|--|--|--|

DOWN